Schedules of the Indian Constitution

SCHEDULES OF INDIAN CONSTITUTION

Introduction:

- The Constitution of India initially consisted of 8 schedules, 22 parts, and 395 articles when adopted in 1949.
- Over time, the Constitution has expanded to 12 schedules, 25 parts, and around 450 articles.
- The first mention of schedules in the Indian Constitution was in the Government of India Act of 1935, which included 10 schedules.
- Schedules were added to manage additional information and to simplify the legal structure.
- They enable the amending process, including adding or deleting provisions, without affecting the main parts of the Constitution.

Important Facts:

- The 9th Schedule was introduced by the 9th Constitutional Amendment Act, of 1951 to protect land reform laws from judicial review.
- The 10th Schedule, which contains provisions regarding the Anti-Defection Law, was added in 1985 by the 52nd Constitutional Amendment Act.
- The 11th Schedule deals with the Panchayats and was introduced by the 73rd Constitutional Amendment Act, 1992.
- The 12th Schedule includes provisions regarding Municipalities and was added by the 74th Constitutional Amendment Act, 1992
